The Class of 1991 would like to dedicate this yearbook to our families. Without their love, support and encouragement, our time in medical school would have been so much more difficult. We appreciate your strength, your compassion, your patience, and for being there when we needed you the most. Thank You.

Robert E. Carlson, M.D.

Dr. Robert E. Carlson was the Acting Chief of General Internal Medicine. He upheld Jesuit tradition beginning his career at Loyola University Chicago as an undergraduate student and continued as a medical student, resident, and clinical faculty member. Other responsibilities included directorship of the student health service, outpatient services and the medical intensive care units. A physician devoted to primary care, Dr. Carlson was best known to students, residents, and his fellow colleagues for his love and enthusiasm for teaching. We thank Dr. Carlson for his dedication and contribution to Loyola and he will always be remembered. He will be missed.

THE FUN-TIMES

Greetings! We have decided this class needs a newspaper. Not a stuffy, boring "newsy" sheet to just take up space in your mailboxes, but something that might make you laugh, and maybe even make you think. So read on and enjoy.

Today's first topic will be the MDLs. Ever notice how they have personalities? Let's start with the first. Now here we have a true range of personalities. From the late night gunners to the late night partiers, this MDL has it all. It's only fitting that Mom should be in this MDL, watching over her children.

How about that second MDL? Definitely an exciting bunch; although Volleyball Dave has enough energy for 25 people.

The third MDL represents a return to the living. How could it be boring with the Jon M.-Joe M. duo and the "champ" clan? The most laughter comes from this MDL-- dare we say that they're laughing at each other?

We now arrive at the obituary portion of our paper. MDL 2729 died a painless death on August 3, 1987. Ever since that date no-one has heard a sound from behind those closed doors. It is rumored that a few quiet souls actually inhabit 2729, but we do not believe in ghosts.

Has anyone actually made the journey out to that last outpost MDL? An occasional football is seen flying out of the room (we make no comment as to how this symbolizes the mentality of that MDL). Our Fearless Leader is said to lodge there.

So, have you pegged all your classmates yet? Who's a gunner, who's gay, who's weird, who's a fox, etc. ad infinitum. Do you even know all your classmates? Or are you in one of the several cliques that always sit together, eat together, study together, and party together? We here at the Times don't like any cliques except our own (only the truly great can be elite).

Let's see, what can we slam next? Ah yes, Slow-ops. Aside from copy room delays, author delays, and lost tapes, co-ops have been perfect. We here at the Times have built up a nice tape collection, along with the rest of the class. But we'd like to know what's happened with all the money that should have been collected in fines by now. Jatin???

We saw talk show host Ms. Winfrey at a Greek restaurant. Every time they lit some cheese, she stood up and waved.

Perhaps we should get Professors Manion and McCarthy a blackboard. Lord knows they don't need a microphone. (Now, now, we promised not to be mean. Well, not too mean).

Wait a minute, we haven't picked on the Californians yet. Oh, but we should be sympathetic. Winter has arrived and they're still trying to figure out what a car scraper is and why they need one. It will be hard to break the news to them that the ski jackets they have won't quite do to protect from the Windy City cold. Maybe we could all chip in and buy them electric socks. Or a walk-along portable heater.

Maybe the curve will be reasonable if we kidnap Dave Lane just before the biochem final. And Lynn before the anatomy final.

The Name Game: Once upon a time we woke up and screamed "Hey Ma, I want a Stack of pancakes and some eggs Odorisi for breakfast." Ma replied "Quit making all that Noyes, run out to the chicken Koop, and get the eggs. Do you think I'm here for your every Beck and call?" Breakfast was made. Ma did manage not to Byrne the eggs, so after Grace we said Amin, ate the eggs and used our Tung to lick our plates clean. We Bresch-ed our hair and Wendt down the Lane toward school, pleased to hear a Martin singing from a tree. Up ahead we saw a group of Men who shouted "Hey Yu!" and began to chase us, waving a Hammer. These Savage men meant to Pierce our skulls and cause us much Pang. We had our backs to the Wall, Crouch-ed in a Korner when an Angell carrying a Candel appeared and said, "You were not Wiess to attempt to harm these children." They said "O Kay," and left us a Blank check to cover emotional damages. THE END.

Dr. Cooper was wrong. There's actually four people in the class who stick foreign objects . . . . We know who they are, but we'll never tell. We also won't tell on the two faculty members with like habits.

Ever notice how the same people sit in the same seats for each lecture? Let's start with the south side (not that it bears any resemblance to Chicago's South Side). The first few rows are filled with, as you may expect, the gunners. Kind of a Gunner's Alley. The next few rows are the grad student section. Here you'll find Mr. Handlebar Mustache, asker of silly questions. The last third is hard to describe; for lack of a better generalization we'll call it the Nice Guy/Gal section. You know, where the amorphous, usually quiet, "nice" people sit. Which brings us back to the front of the room, this time on the north side. The first three or four rows are again occupied by the gunners (or the myopic). The next couple of rows seems to be ruled by the married (or very steady) women. These rows are followed by another vague section similar to the Nice Guy/Gal section, but with a wider range of personalities. We guess you could call it a "safely moderate" section. Then comes the abrupt transition into the noisy section, somewhat analogous to the high school burn-out section that sat at the back of the class. Smartass comments, rustling of papers, and sleeping abound here. This section quickly fades into the true "back row" that is reserved for the latecomers who delight in blocking the slide projector.

Good luck on finals. If we've offended you, tough.
Until we decide to print again, happy trials (sic).

AMWA plays an important role at Loyola addressing the special concerns of women in medicine and offering support for female physicians in training. In addition, Loyola's branch of AMWA is very active in providing programs which allow for interaction between medical students and the faculty. These include Lunch with the Docs, a way in which first and second year students can hear clinical faculty informally talk about their specialties; Surviving the Clerkships, a panel discussion every spring to help ease the transition to the clinical years for students; and potluck dinners where students and faculty can interact. AMWA has also sponsored speakers on subjects such as marriage and family, death and dying and the role of hospice care, and battered women.

Amnesty International and Student National Medical Association

322 EIGHTH AVENUE NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10001

Amnesty International is a politically neutral international organization that tries to protect the human rights of people who have been imprisoned for the peaceful expression of their principles.

The Health Professionals Network of Amnesty International is more specifically concerned with the medical condition, both physical and psychological, of these "prisoners of conscience." It also takes a special interest in the cases of physicians and other health-care personnel who are imprisoned for treating the "wrong" people in repressive political situations.

At Loyola Stritch School of Medicine the organization primarily tries to present issues to medical students that highlight ways they can participate as physicians in the world-wide struggle for freedom and human rights.

Pied Beauty
  Glory be to God for dappled things
For skies of couple color and a brinded cow
  For rose moles all in stipple upon trout that swim
Fresh-firecoals, chestnut-falls, Finches wings
  Landscape plotted and pieced-fold, fallow, and plow
And all trades their gear and tackle and trim

  All things original, counter, spare strange whatever is Fickle, freckled (who knows how);

To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,
  Old time is still a-flying;
And this same flower that smiles today
  Tomorrow will be dying.

The glorious lamp of heaven, the sun,
  The higher he's a-getting,
The sooner will his race be run,
  And nearer he's to setting.

That age is best which is the first,
  When youth and blood are warmer;
But being spent, the worse, and worst
  Times still succeed the former.

Then be not coy, but use your time,
  And, while ye may, go marry;
For, having lost but once your prime,
  You may forever tarry.

Dear Classmates,

I came to Loyola because when I interviewed the people seemed friendliest here. Thank you for not letting me down. Good luck to all of you in whatever you do.

But before I end, let me say a few things. I really didn't write The Fun-Times. Really. Ask Claire.

Thanks for being a great roommate and friend Pete. And for putting up with the occasional blast of Deep Purple or Whitesnake.

QUADRUPLE BIRTHDAYS—Four members of the Robert Noyes family of Oakdale can celebrate their birthdays on the same date. The unusual feature is that the two newest twin arrivals, a boy and girl, appeared Feb. 15, the birthday of the older boy and girl twins who were born three years ago. The babies are Douglas and Diane and the 3-year-olds are Cheryl and Brian who posed with their mother. All were born on Feb. 15, a circumstance which the oddsmakers have put at 23,862,279 to 1, according to their father, Bob Noyes.

Hospital hunt ends on med students' 'Match Day'

By Maudlyne Ihejirika
Staff Writer

Emmanuella Joseph, 25, of the North Side was too scared to open the envelope. So she gave it to her sister and ran off to get telephone change.

Her sister's scream brought her hurrying back.

Joseph, one of 100 students graduating from Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine in Maywood, took the envelope and soon was screaming, too.

It was "Match Day" again, an annual rite of spring when graduating medical students across the country learn where they will continue their training in hospital residency programs.

Joseph had gathered with her fellow students at M. T. Spirits saloon in Berwyn for the ritual opening of envelopes, occurring simultaneously for medical schools across the nation.

She found she had been accepted at her first of 20 choices for hospital residency programs. She will fill one of two slots open in the University of Chicago Hospitals' advanced plastic surgery program—one of only nine such positions open in the United States.

"I'm in shock. I'm so happy," said Joseph. "I wanted to be a surgeon so very badly, so I'd said I'd go anywhere and take anything. But I really wanted to stay in Chicago, near my family. This was too much to hope for."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Mark Faucher, 27, of Worcester, Mass., accepted by the third of his 12 choices, the obstetrics/gynecology program at Hartford Hospital in Hartford, Conn.

"Oh, my God!" he yelled, upon opening the envelope.

"I'm ecstatic," he said. "I'm just surprised I got one of my first three choices. All three were comparable, so there's no disappointment. I'm so happy to be going back to the East Coast."

Annually, 15,000 seniors nationwide go through the ritual that began last fall with applications to their preferred programs. Next came visits and interviews. Then students and hospitals ranked each other by order of preference. Finally, the National Residency Matching Program put them together.

But sometimes togetherness is lost on the computer, as in the case of Mary Uckerman, 27, and her husband, Bryan Mitchell, 25, of La Grange.

Uckerman got her first choice—the pathology program at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital, while Mitchell got his second—pathology at the University of Chicago Hospitals.

"It's kind of disappointing," said Uckerman. "It would have been nice to be together."

"But we talked about the fact that this might happen, beforehand," said Mitchell. "So I'm OK with it. On the bright side, we'll get to spend vacations together. If we were in the same program, there's no way they'd let us both go at the same time. We'd have to stagger vacations. So this isn't so bad."

#14

Hello there yearbook peoole. We here at the Fun-Times feel it imperative to respond to your request via Mikey Olgren's terrible rip-off of our sacred newsletter. We must show the that Fun-Times is often imitated, never equaled. Especially not by Mikey. He won't like this-- he hates everything.

We have deigned to allow you to review all the issues of the Fun-Times ever written, plus, as an added bonus, the last issue (issue #13) that was written last year and posted by the mailboxes, only to be torn down by someone before anyone else had the opportunity to be enlightened by our wisdom. And, as your free gift, new material you may feel free to include in the yearbook. Of course, we expect ALL of this to be included. In fact, there should be a separate volume to detail how the Fun-Times has changed the course of history... But we digress.

MORE NEW STUFF:

Since this is yearbook time, how about more superlatives?

--Most likely to be dirt poor in twenty years: Linda Vassmer
--Most likely to be obscenely weathy: Mitch Grubman
--Most likely to be obscene: Tony Sanzone
--Most likely to strap themselves to a whaling ship: Mark Tiritilli
--Most likely to own a whaling ship: Joe Kut
--Most likely to marry someone named Muffy: Sean Manion
--Most likely to marry someone named Biff: Sue Scanlon
--Most likely to not show up at class 10 year reunion: Drew Kowalkowski
--Most likely to show up to class 10 year reunion with pink hair: Mary Grace
--Most likely to show up to class 10 year reunion with no hair: Joe McNally
--Class flirts: Manny Pyka, Chris Schwartz

OUR CLASS SONG (to the tune of a song by U2)

I have climbed the highest mountains
I have run through the halls
Only to pass this school
Only to graduate
I have read, I have scrawled
I have scheduled thirty interviews
Only to find a school
Only to know what to do
But I still haven't found
What I'm looking for

I have kissed many butts
Felt the healing in their fingertips
It burned like fire
This morning's coffee
I have spoke with the tongue of angels
I have held the hand of a devil
It was warm at the VA
During that psych rotation
But I still haven't found
What I'm looking for

REELING IN THE YEARS: (or As Time Goes By) Memories:

First Year: Freshmen yet again. Remember how scared we were, how naive we were? How we actually paid for our parking cards, and how knowledgable the seniors seemed? Things have changed. Remember biochem quizzes, that formaldehyde smell, or the first time you really thought you were going to fail? Or the time you really did?

Second Year: Now we settled down to work, resigned to what had to be done. But wait a minute, there still was some time to party. Micro/pharm/path, and the dreaded Organ Systems. Does anyone remember anything from Comedy Medicine?

Third Year: On the floors. Starting IVs. Watching as patients' blood pooled on the floor. Mumbling through case presentations. Wondering what the hell am I doing here. And just what the hell do I want to do with the rest of my life?

Fourth Year: Still trying to figure out what to do. Try-out electives. Interviews. It all never seems to end. Match Day. Vacation electives. Cardiographics. GRADUATION!!

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS: Although we have learned a lot, there are still a few unanswered questions...

--Just what exactly is that creamy white soap in the bathrooms?

--If the roughly $2,000,000 collected in tuition each year is not enough to pay for our education, where does the money go? [Maybe the Freeark Tower or the mile away parking structure, which, by the way will be finished just in time for our graduation.]

--What is that mountain of dirt east of 1st Ave.?

--Should the cafeteria food really be served to people already sick?

PARTING SHOTS:

--I might be bitter, but just what does AOA stand for? Absence of Outside Activities?

--How do you pronounce Vte?

--As an attending, would you put up with a student leaving rounds to go play volleyball?

--Bharat, grow back the 'stache.

It's been real. It's been fun. And, yeah, it's been real fun. We would like to thank you all for being such a cool class, even though we are the paragon of cool. Maybe some day you'll see this column in the New England Journal. Too bad none of you were able to figure out "our" true identity. But then again, who would believe the Dean of Student Affairs would write such a thing...

Good luck to all of you.
